FCAA CONTINUES TO SURPASS WATER QUALITY STANDARDS

The celebration of Drinking Water Week is approaching and the Theme – “Your water – to know it is to love it” seems more appropriate than ever. Recent articles in the news painted the state of Florida with a broad brush with regard to Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA) violations. That report is not indicative of your Florida Keys water and, in fact, the Florida Keys Aqueduct Authority has had no SDWA violations. The Florida Keys Aqueduct Authority wants our customers to know that their tap water continues to meet and surpass all regulated water quality standards.

Maintaining a safe and high quality water supply is our number one priority. This would not be possible without continued investment in the infrastructure, commitment of highly skilled staff and the support of our community. By working together we can continue to ensure that our water meets the highest possible standards. Please join us at any of our customer service offices from May 8th to through 12th to celebrate drinking water week, learn more about your water and toast the best drink in town.

For more information about your drinking water anytime go to www.fkaa.com or call Julie Cheon, FCAA Public Information Manager, at (305) 295-2150.
